

Reddit

Chat

Context

r/worldnews

► Bolton says U.S. sanctions to stay until Russia changes behavior
[OTHER]: But how are you going to make it so that Russia does change its behavior towards the U.S. when they're dealing with sanctions from the U.S.?

Context

[User]: do elephants got cancer
[AI]: Elephants can get cancer, but it's rare. They have multiple copies of a cancer-suppressing gene. This is known as Peto's paradox.

Ground Truth

How do the sanctions prevent Russia from stopping their interference in our elections?
Please explain.

Ground Truth

how thick is elephants skin

SFT

Because they're not one-sided. Russia will be forced to change its behavior, or it will lose more than it gains.

SFT

what is Peto's paradox

SIM Reward

It's a stupid idea to expect Russia to change its behavior under pressure from the U.S.

SIM Reward

how many copies of the cancer supresing gene do elephants have

Turing (Ours)

It doesn't make any sense to use sanctions as leverage to force Russia to change its behavior.

Turing (Ours)

what is the name of the gene